AtHomeNet's Cyndi Sanders Presents Content for FCAP's Florida Advanced CAM Studies

HEATHROW, FLORIDA – APRIL 23, 2012 – FCAP-Florida Community Association Professionals, LLC brought together community association experts in Fort Lauderdale, Florida during the week of April 16 – 20, 2012 at Gold Coast Professional Schools' Tamarac campus to present and record information for FCAP's 40-hour Florida Advanced CAM Studies. AtHomeNet's Cyndi Sanders presented a one-hour presentation on Website, Internet, and Social Media Integration as part of the 40-hour offering.

Florida Advanced CAM Studies is a 40-hour/5-day training course for licensed CAMs in Florida who are pursuing FCAP's professional designation of CFCAM – Certified Florida Community Association Manager. Florida Advanced CAM Studies is currently offered at Florida CAM Schools and Gold Coast Professional Schools. Thirty-three partner companies including AtHomeNet provided curriculum in the Advanced CAM Studies course development. These partner companies include communication specialists, banks, management companies, accounting firms, attorneys, reserve specialists, insurance companies, and assorted industrial companies specializing in interior and exterior repairs and maintenance of homeowners associations, condominium associations, cooperatives, timeshares and mobile home parks.

FCAP – Florida Community Association Professionals, LLC is an organization created to raise the level of professionalism among managers, service providers and community volunteers. Membership in FCAP means a community association manager, board member or service provider has made a commitment to this industry through industry-specific training and has agreed to appropriate business and personal verification searches via federal, state and local government agencies, insurance companies, Better Business Bureau records, credit reporting agencies and industry rating services.
